Seniors Say

*A million tomorrows may all pass away,
Ere I forget all the joys that were mine today.*

No one can give an accurate definition of joy except, perhaps, by saying that it is a pleasant emotion which is dependent upon individual interests and individual personalities. Throughout our high school years we all have shared in similar activities, but because we are individuals, we have not all received the same degree of happiness from our common endeavors. We have attained joy while working together on panels, on committees, and on teams, but we did not all experience joy at the same moment, nor in the same way. Some of us felt joy when we were chosen as group leaders or when we contributed a good idea which was accepted by the others. Because we may have had a great desire to express our opinions intelligently, we realized joy in making ourselves understood by our fellow students. No matter how different our interests may have been, we usually felt most of our joy when we had attained or were in the process of attaining our personal goals.

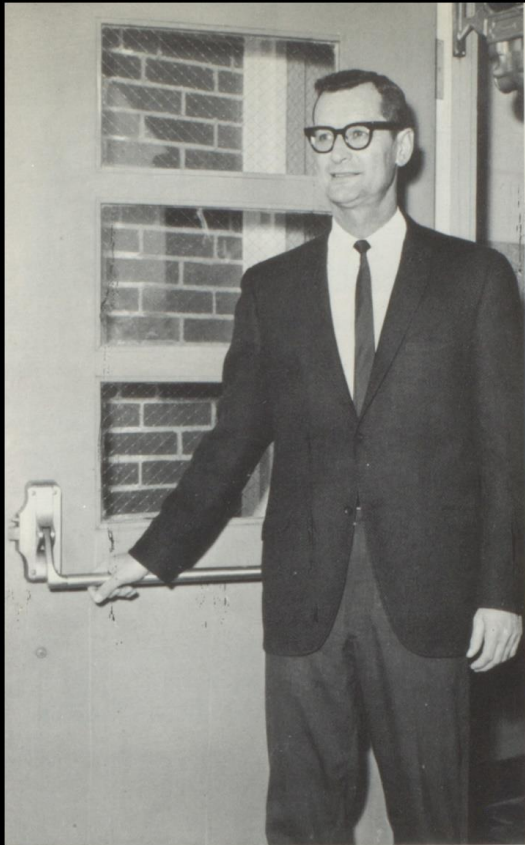

We have had numerous opportunities to discover the joy of meeting intellectual challenges. For example, some of us have shared in the excitement of discovering the inner meaning in pieces of literature. This searching in literature, this attempt to distinguish between what is merely surface and what is truly deep, enabled us—in a larger sense—to find joy in understanding and appreciating our fellow men, not for what they appear to be, but for what they are.

At the same time we have experienced the fears and doubts which arose when we were faced with a seemingly impossible problem, such as writing a term paper or completing a science project. But if the work was conscientiously done, we also experienced the thrill of knowing that we had done our best and had succeeded. For one of the most cherished joys we have is the warmth of knowing that others respect us and have confidence in us. It is this joy which urges us to continue.

Whether it was the excitement at a basketball game or the personal satisfaction of a well-presented speech, all of our joys have helped in some way to form our character and are even now urging us to set forth into our challenging and demanding world. We shall not "forget all the joys that were ours today," for they have become a part of what we are.

The office secretaries, Mrs. R. Cole and Mrs. D. Smith, meet the numerous demands of the student body.

Staff

The dietitian, Mrs. L. Brown, plans the school menu.

School custodians P. Paoletti, F. Gragnolati, and E. Cormier make minor repairs to maintain good study conditions.

The student janitors, R. Chicoine, J. Hannigan, D. Harvey, B. Dineen, F. DeBella, D. Skripol, and J. MacDonald, supplement the work of the regular staff.

Members of the kitchen staff—Mrs. E. Raggio, Mrs. F. Stanger, Jr., Mrs. D. Colone, Mrs. J. McKeown, Mrs. R. Walters, and Mrs. J. Prindle—prepare and serve daily lunches.

Mr. O'Brien, advisor, prepares the tear sheet for the advertisement section of the yearbook.

T. Wigfield spends many hours after school selling advertisements.

The Herald Business Board

Members are often nervous, but a push by D. Giggeri works quite well for O. Ghezzi

O. Ghezzi, R. Gill, D. Giggeri, R. Harrison, and C. Balboni demand nourishment as they work on the advertisements.

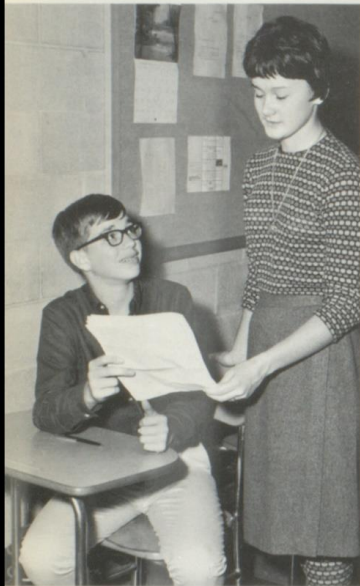

Miss Colby personally asks each person to join the staff. Shown here are D. Ollari and R. Smith.

After a year of hard work by the staff, purchasers C. Delpivo and L. Rousseau receive their books.

Newly appointed yearbook members, R. D'Agostino and I. Hale, join S. Rau for refreshments at the June reception.

B. Prindle, one of the sophomore editors, anxiously awaits approval of his work by the editor, S. Rau.

Before each deadline the staff proofreader, R. Ritchie, searches for errors.

At the annual Christmas party the Mexican exchange students, Eduardo Martinez Tovar and Javier Ugalde, tell staff members about their native country.

Mr. Robinson and Miss Colby discuss the cover chosen by the Herald staff.

When students talk to Loring Studios about their pictures, the Herald staff is there to assist them. Left to right are K. Meehan, W. Bourque, C. Kidwell, M. Downs, M. Grabowicz, N. Hamblin, and J. McHugh.

Junior members are determined to secure a fair number of pages for their class. The juniors are T. Walker, C. Angilly, T. Weatherbee, R. D'Agostino, B. Uchneat, I. Hale, P. Babiarz.

K. Dunbar asks staff artist E. Nash to draw something for her page.

D. Colpitts spends most of her time making appointments with Loring photographers.

To facilitate the work of other members, M. Randall files the incoming pictures.

Before a deadline typists stay late to finish the triplicates. Left to right are A. Giannoccaro, K. Burke, C. Jeffery.

L. Tobiasz, S. Harris, L. Pirog, S. Blackburn, C. Carnevale, and L. Bianchi work diligently on the senior biography sections.

Senior Class Officers

President: Robert Kaufman
Vice-President: Diane Nappi
Secretary: Katherine Burke
Treasurer: Dale Ollari

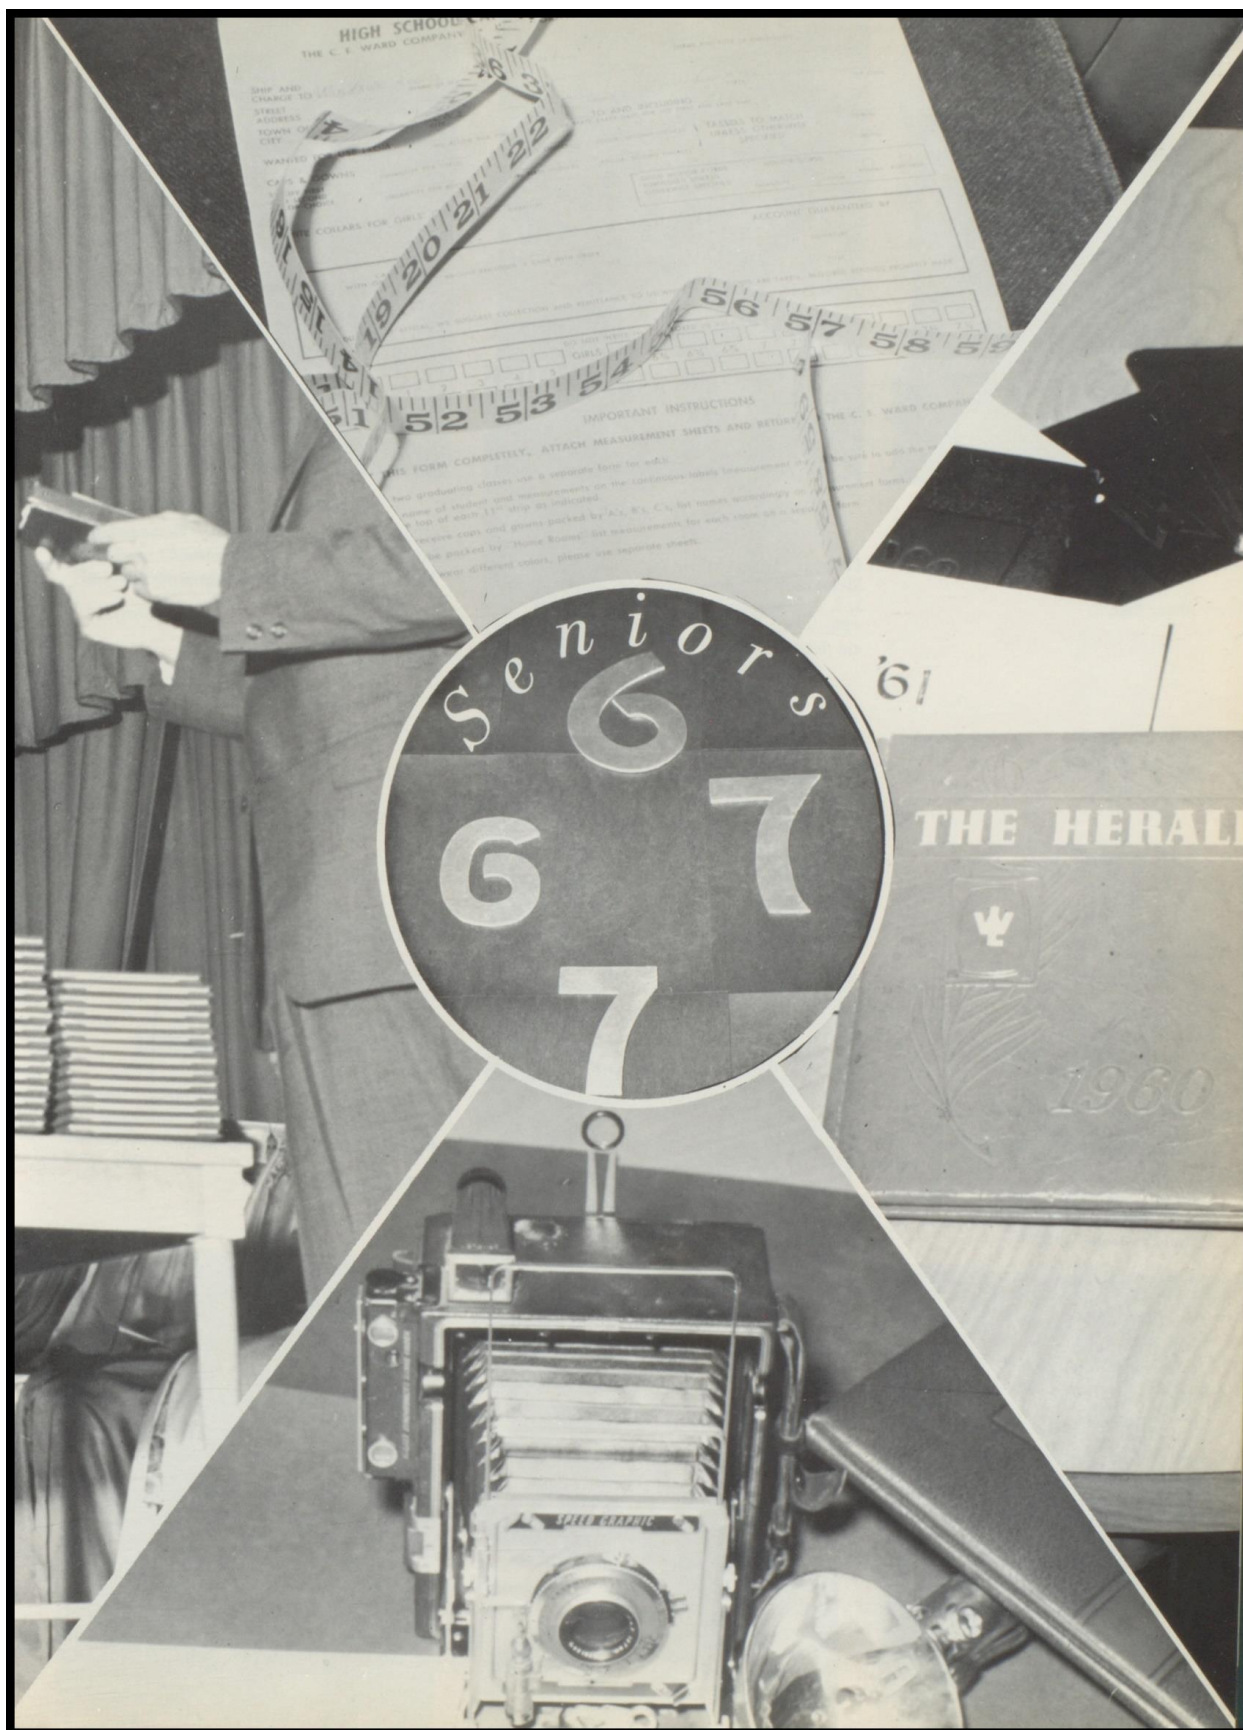

R. Kaufman leads discussion of Senior Executive Board members as Mr. Corcoran, advisor, listens attentively. Members seated (l. to r.) are K. Burke, R. Ritchie, E. Dalglish, S. Harris, G. Hanley, M. Downs, R. Gill, N. Hamblin, D. Ollari, R. Rousseau, and D. Nappi.

Senior Executive Board

N. Hamblin expresses her preference for the class motto to K. Burke, R. Kaufman, E. Dalglish, and Mr. Corcoran.

"Rick, that pony ready to run?"

As we, the Class of '67, leave the sanctuary found within these familiar doors, we are apprehensive about losing the security they symbolize, but we are, also, anticipating a future life of challenge and opportunity.

Known for their smiling faces and friendly dispositions, Robert Kaufman and Lois Bianchi have the Best Personalities.

Jimmy Labbe and Gail Quinlivan cheer their team to victory, showing that they truly have the Most School Spirit.

David Derby and Sandra Rau, assuming position, are Most Likely to Succeed.

Seniors Say

Who knows what the Class Jesters, Linda Griffin and Richard Smith, are going to cook up next?

Most Handsome and Most Attractive are Noel Gilbert and Diane Nappi.

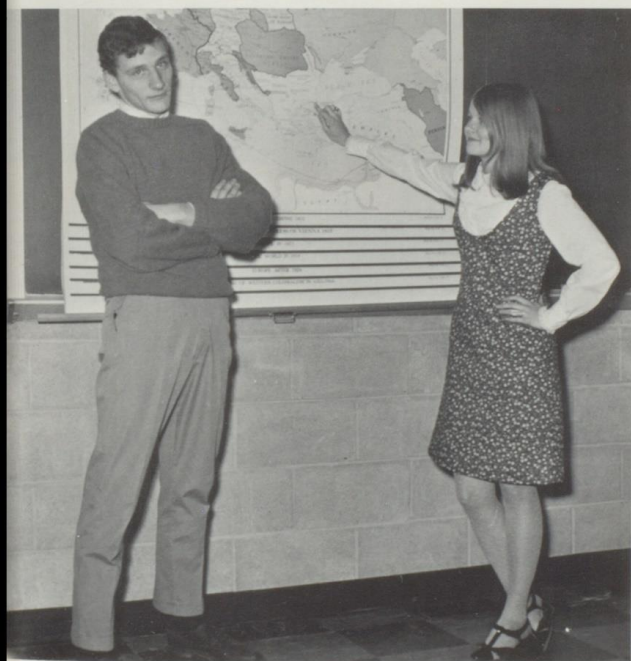

Earl Dagleish and Dale Roncari, who always look their best no matter where they are, have been voted the Best Dressed of their class.

Among the well-remembered faces—and voices—of the class of '67 are those of Robert Gill and Shirley Timko, the Most Talkative.

"Come on, Sue. You can do it!" Thomas O'Neil and Susan Blackburn have been chosen Most Athletic.

Timothy Foster and Marian Grabowicz discover areas of disagreement all over the world. Thus, they earn the title of Most Argumentative.

Kathleen O'Brien and Edward Nash have proved to be most creative in the fields of art and literature.

S. Rau received the Conn. Assoc. of Women Deans and Counselors Award in her junior year, and the Daughters of the American Revolution Award in her senior year.

D. Zdun, C. Szymczyk, D. Yiznitsky, and M. Allard won prizes for their entries in the Industrial Arts Fair.

Seniors Excel

The Betty Crocker Homemaker of the Year Award was won by M. Grabowicz.

48 M. Downs was the recipient of the Yale Book Award.

R. Gill was awarded a clock radio for earning the greatest amount of money selling magazines and also received first prize in the annual Public Speaking Contest.

B. Beaudry, R. Daley, and W. Bourque achieved the top scores in the Time Magazine current affairs testing program.

M. Downs, R. Connor, D. Derby, W. Bourque, and J. Mc Hugh represented our school at Nutmeg Boys' State.

N. Gilbert was the highest scoring senior in the final phase of the Physical Fitness Award competition.

Walking through Fantasia Land, we all look our best.

D. Nappi reigns as our queen. D. Roncari, A. Ingari, and M. Withers are her court.

Ted the Tiger enjoys the prom, too.

D. Chasse, K. Korn, D. Ollari, C. Carnevale, S. Blackburn, and L. Bianchi work hard the night before to have everything ready for Saturday night.

K. Burke, S. Blackburn, and N. Hamblin finish the red velvet throne for the queen.

Seniors Anticipate

J. Sasali and T. Sasali, after receiving their class rings, proudly display them as a sign of membership in the junior class.

Former Class President B. Frankland hands over the gavel of authority to Senior Class President R. Kaufman.

R. Smith's measurements are taken prior to graduation.

On Career Day an airline stewardess, Sue Ann Koll, discusses with the senior girls the advantages of her occupation.

Ready to be measured for their caps and gowns are a few members of the senior class.

Mr. Shapiro shows Miss Leary and Mrs. Oates, advisors to the National Honor Society, the blazers that will be given to those students who maintain an "A" average through high school.

National Honor Society

These seniors qualify for membership by achieving an 85 or above average.

Miss Leary coaches D. Ridel, S. Rau, N. Hamblin, and R. Janik before they present their speeches at the National Honor Society assembly.

The officers of the National Honor Society—L. Bianchi, D. Derby, and S. Campbell—discuss with Mrs. Oates the constitutional amendments. K. Cosker, also an officer, is not present.

The National Honor Society includes, first row (l. to r.): M. Schauble, P. Babiarz, S. Campbell, S. Wieliczka, S. Enz, C. Swanson, L. Barron, S. Rau, D. Colpitts, M. Taylor, E. Murkiewicz, R. Janik, D. Ridel, L. Bianchi, C. Balboni. Second row: C. Kidwell, L. Tobiasz, N. Hamblin, D. Giannuzzi, C. Angilly, S. Harris, P. Krauss, A. Ingari. Third row: D. Derby, R. D'Agostino, L. Pirog, D. Thibodeau, B. Savilonis, R. Grant, M. Downs, T. Meck, A. Paluck, D. Gragnolati, T. Weatherbee, H. Vanderbilt, T. Walker, R. Connor.

The "keys to freedom" are finally received with the completion of the driver's education course.

Happiness is cheering the team to victory after a close game.

Forty-two hundredths of a second reaction time is essential for skillful driving.

Juniors may also participate in—and even win—various scholastic competitions such as the "Voice of Democracy" speaking contest and the "Hire the Handicapped" essay contest.

The last period of a junior's day is a class in "economics" at Friendly's.

Classroom breaks offer enough time for "junior" antics.

Juniors — Class of '68

The guidance office serves as a center for counseling all juniors and guiding college aspirants.

Class officers: Todd Meck, President; Douglas Gilbert, Vice-President; Corinne Montemerlo, Secretary; and Newton Thompson, Treasurer.

Juniors obviously enjoy the many different activities available to students on club night.

Juniors reflect their anticipation of the Prom.

Juniors earn academic distinction by winning in the local science fair.

The Student Council

The Student Council is a representative element of school government. Standing are (l. to r.): Miss Dezolt, advisor, P. Bednarz, M. Maltese, S. Sales, E. Colli, R. Gill, N. Thompson, K. Burke, G. Kelly, V. Colapietro, Mr. Muska, advisor. Sitting are (l. to r.): L. Bianchi, D. Roncari, Secretary, J. McHugh, Vice-President, T. Meck, President, B. Uchneat, Treasurer, A. Cencak.

The most important function of the student council—the development of leadership.

From sophomore members . . .

to junior executives . . .

Juniors—G. Kelly, N. Thompson, B. Uchneat, P. Bednarz, T. Meck—explore the intricacies of finance.

to senior leaders

Council leaders—L. Bianchi, R. Gill, J. McHugh, K. Burke, D. Roncari—fulfill their responsibility of keeping the student body informed and of learning the wishes of their classmates.

Sophomores — Class of '69

The Class Officers: Vincent Colapietro, President; Susan Sales, Vice-President; Elizabeth Colli, Secretary; and Patricia Liberty, Treasurer.

Tenth graders empty their lockers as they prepare to leave school.

A sophomore on the soccer squad assists in an offensive play and another, a member of the basketball team, waits for a rebound.

Two cheerleaders take time off from a busy schedule to sell Sophomore Social tickets.

Later in the evening, some of the students attending the dance take a refreshment break.

"I'm afraid you people aren't taking this panel very seriously."

"Something is wrong; there needeth a change."

"Are you sure you want to go to Bates?"

Senior Switch

"All right, throw your carriages."

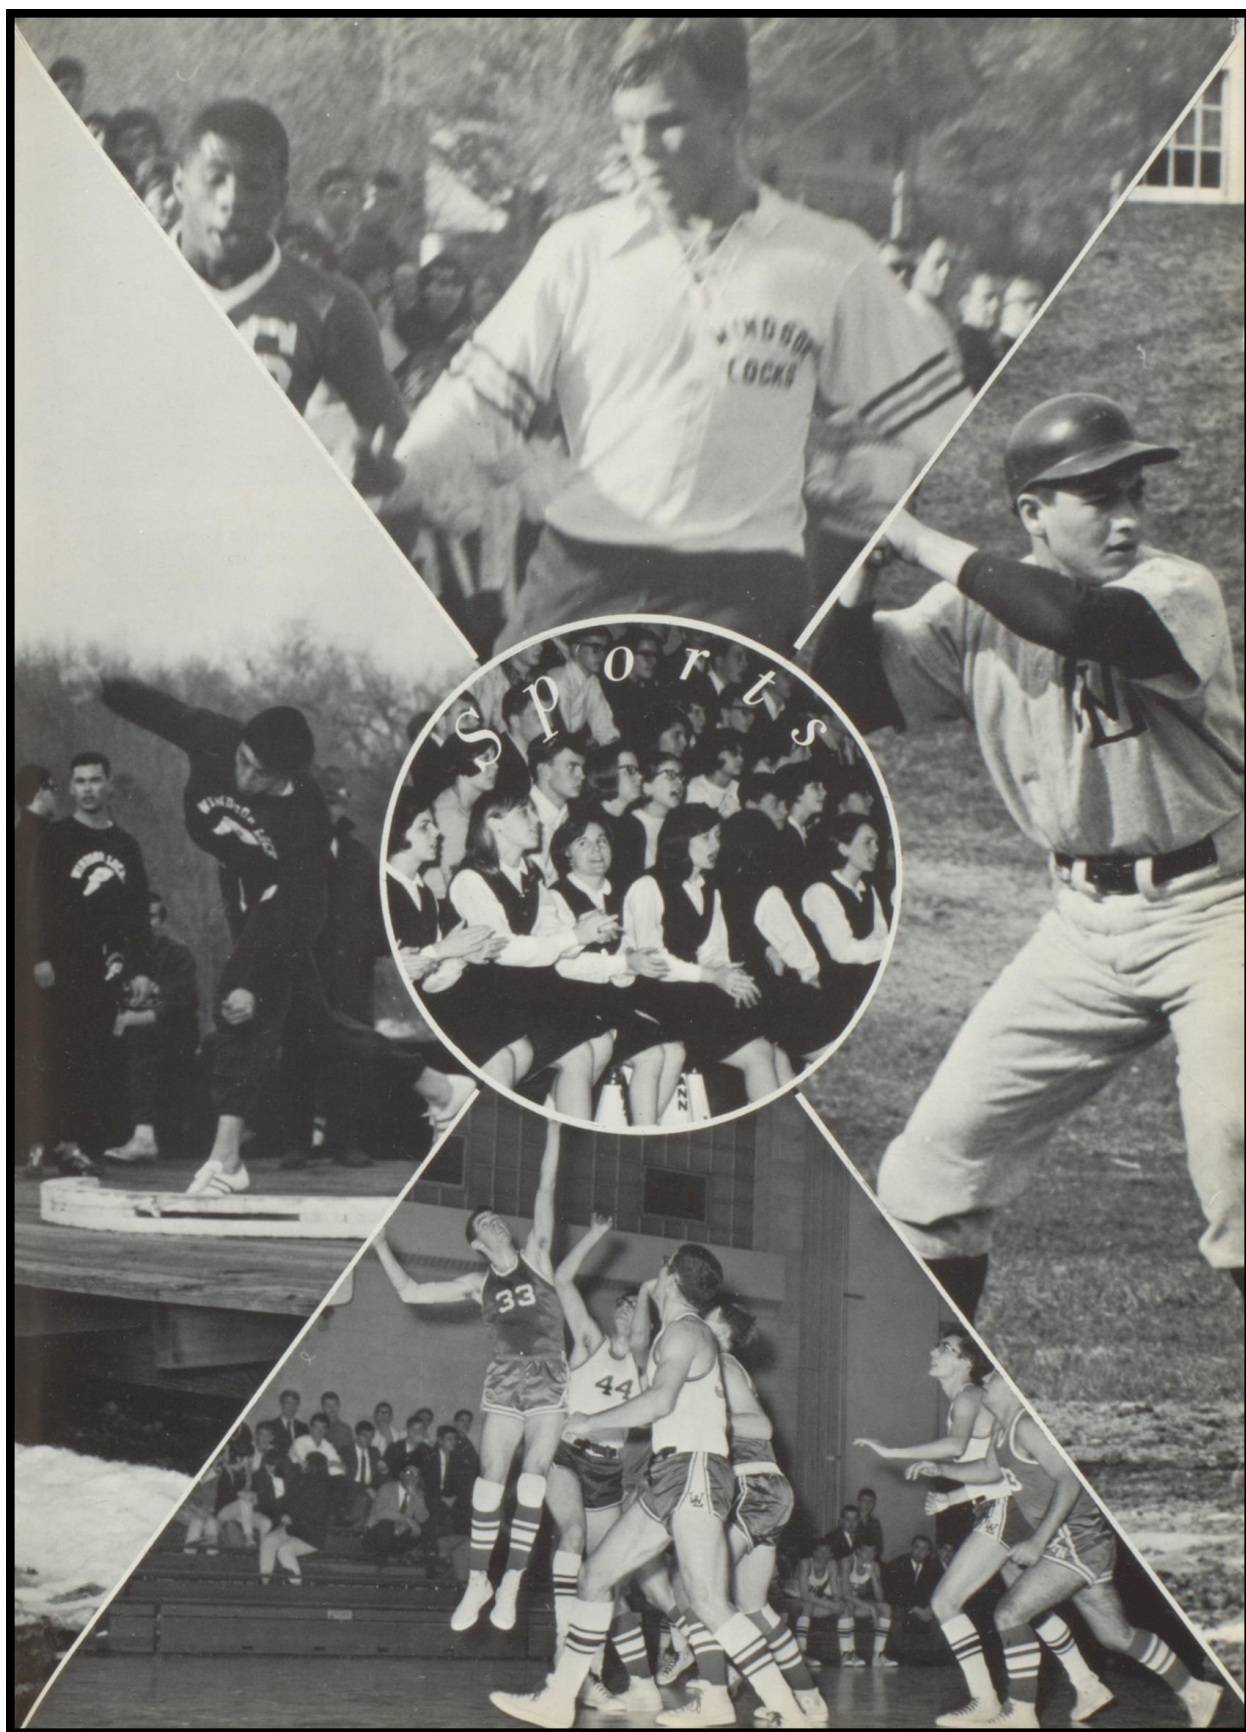

60

"What do you mean, 'This room is reserved for seniors'?"

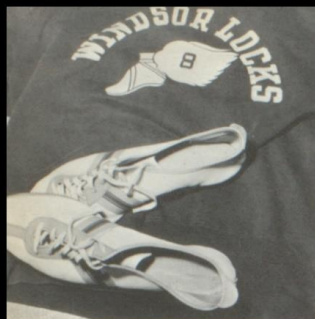

"Just because you're my mother don't think you'll get away with this."

"If the book doesn't fall off, do I get an 'A'?"

B. Savilonis, H. Sanderson, D. Heneghan, and G. Hamley go through some of the tedious practice involved in keeping in shape for track.

Captain D. Heneghan, a junior, is undefeated in regular season competition this year.

Cross Country

The 1966 Windsor Locks Cross Country team, seated (l. to r.): H. Sanderson, R. Chapman, B. Savilonis, W. Moselsky, D. Heneghan, T. Walker, G. Hamley, D. Lunn, T. Samsvick. Standing (l. to r.): Coach P. Sarant, P. Jameson, R. Lupacchino, B. Prindle, D. Gragnolati, T. Daly, T. Weatherbee, S. Jameson, D. Sylvia, and managers H. Vanderbilt and S. Scheerer.

1966 Cross Country Schedule

Oct. 25	Bloomfield	Away	Won	27	28

H. Sanderson, one of the seniors on the team, prepares for a track meet.

Front-running G. Hamley and D. Heneghan are two reasons why Windsor Locks has become conference champions two years in a row.

Getting off to a fast start has enabled Windsor Locks to compile a strong 7-2 won-lost record.

J. McHugh guides the ball to the sure hands of W. Marinone.

Tom O'Neil awaits outcome of encounter between R. Novakowski and opposition.

J. McHugh and J. Novakowski pursue the ball along the side line.

Soccer

The team, front row (l. to r.): T. Sasali, D. Ford, D. O'Connor, D. Wenc, D. Johnson, G. Kelly, R. De Luco, J. Novakowski, T. O'Neil, P. Bednarz, E. Slipski, P. Block, R. La Pointe, T. Wigfield, W. Jubrey, J. McHugh, V. Colapietro, G. Bascetta, R. Novakowski, V. Sadosky, Manager, M. Maltese, Manager, Mr. P. Salo, Asst. Coach, G. Hamley (not shown).

Various points of concentration are shown through bench expressions.

Windsor Locks scores despite goal coverage.

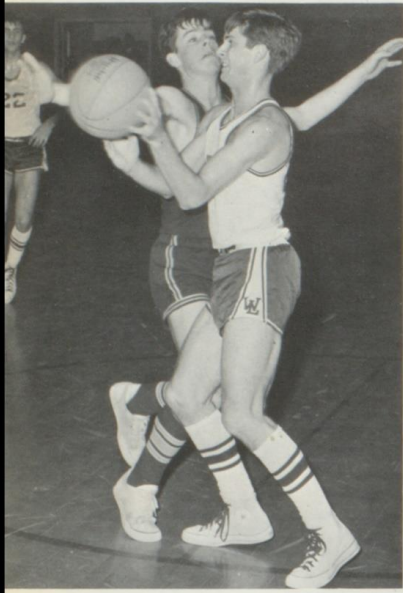

M. Allard and R. Novakowski lead convergence on Suffield header.

Amid protests,
the referee
awards the ball to Suffield.

Basketball

Bob Ritchie fights for possession of the ball.

John Novakowski, one of the ablest defensive players this year, is best known for his hustle and willingness to play. John plays with the sportsmanship required for a winning team.

Tom Sasali, averaging 18 rebounds a game, has come out on top in this category for the year. A shooting average of 14 points a game shows he has also achieved a high scoring record.

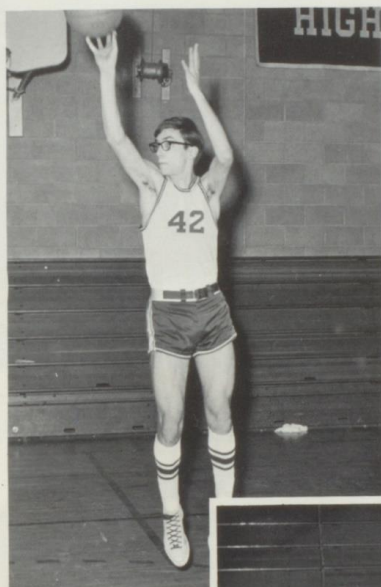

Ray Rousseau attempts a jump shot.

Ray Rousseau, taking a familiar shot, has proved his excellent shooting ability this season. With the help of exceptional games of 29 and 31 points, he has produced a shooting average of 17 points a game.

Bob Ritchie, one of the Raiders' agile guards, has astounded opponents many times with his superior dribbling and his quick passes.

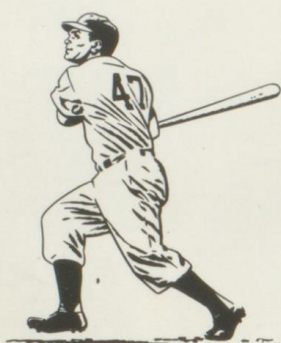

Tim Foster, another Raider guard known for his fine passing and shooting, has made a major contribution to the Locktowners' record this year.

John Novakowski shoots a jump shot.

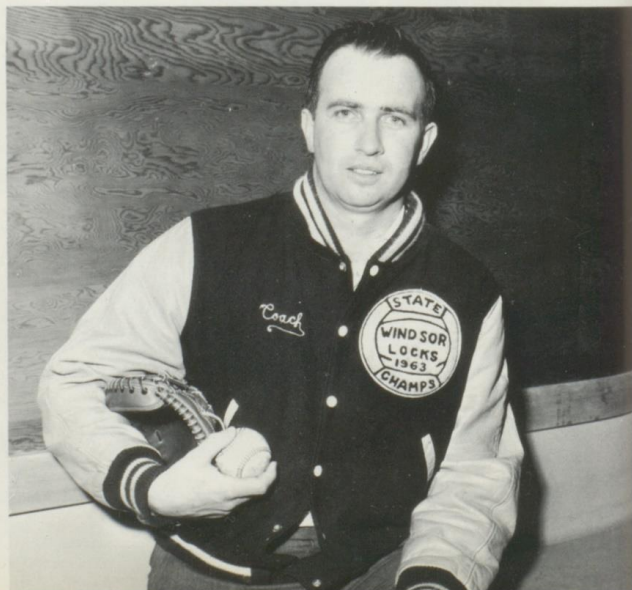

Ray Novakowski runs safely to first on a base hit.

The Varsity, front row (l. to r.): W. Lash, T. Foster, T. O'Neil, J. Novakowski, M. Allard. Second row: D. O'Connor, R. Lupacchino, T. Wigfield, D. Johnson, R. York, P. Block, Russell Akerlind. Third row:

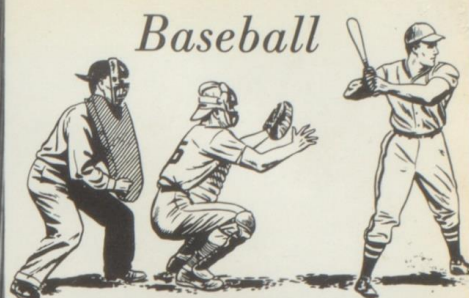

Coach Sullivan pauses for a moment before practice.

R. Graczyk, G. Kelly, D. Tria, R. Novakowski, D. Jubrey, Robert Akerlind, W. Marinone, R. Reardon.

John Mack receives his letter sweater from Mr. Sullivan.

Dennis Jubrey slides safely into third base.

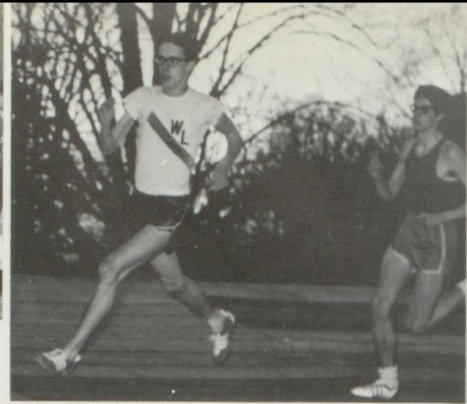

Excited team members yell encouragement to G. Bassetta and G. Hamley in the 40 yard sprint.

With long, smooth strides D. Heneghan scores a first place for Windsor Locks in the 1000 yard run.

G. Hamley takes to the air and easily clears the hurdle in the 40 yard high hurdles at Wilbraham.

Track

H. Sanderson strides easily into the banked curve of an outdoor board track.

G. Hanley works to improve his hurdling form prior to the track season.

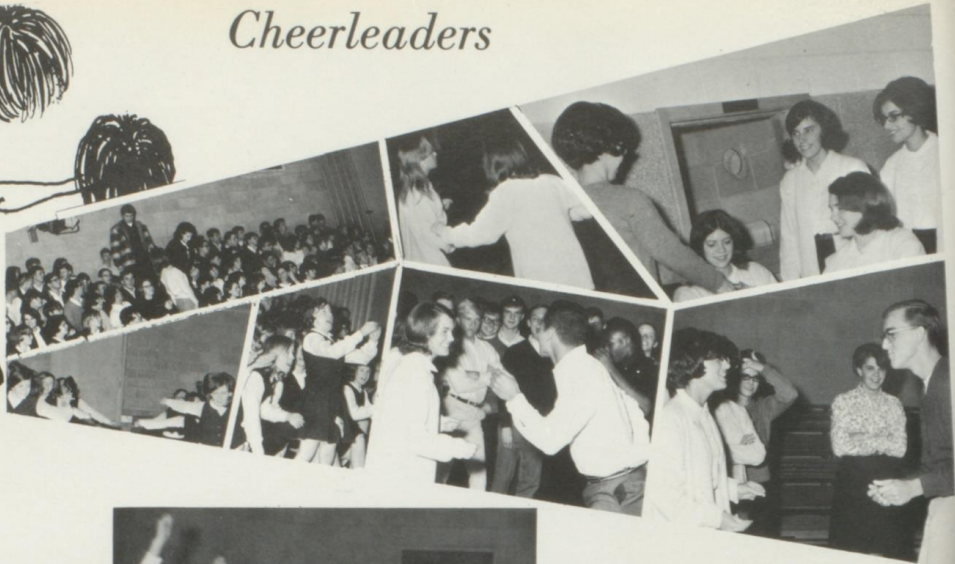

S. Jameson demonstrates the starting position for the pole vault.

G. Morrell keeps in condition during a winter practice session.

Cheerleaders

... And the photographer said, "Well, what can you do?"

The girls cheer the team on with: "We're the team that's dynamite, we're from Windsor Locks, fight, team, fight!"

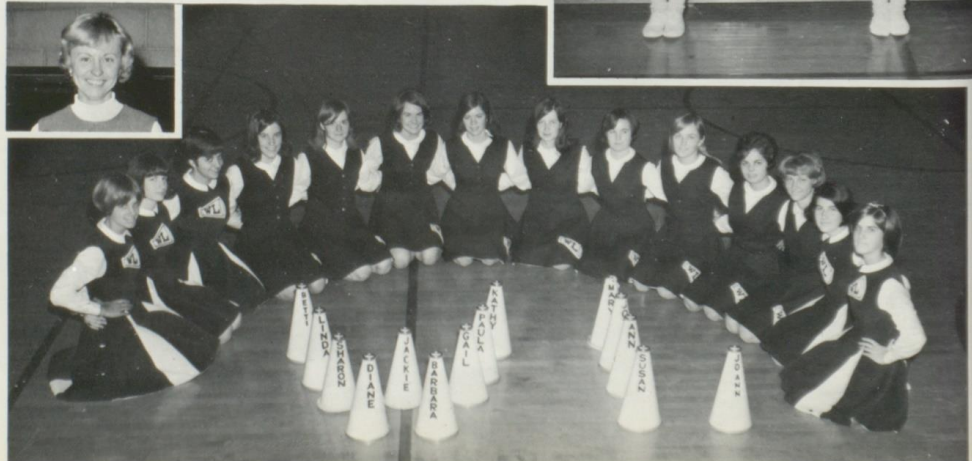

These cheerleaders represent the seniority of the squad. Top to bottom: K. Cosker and G. Quinlivan, A. Grady and J. Sasali, S. Campbell and S. Blackburn.

Mrs. Dowd, Advisor

Band

Each year many new faces and instruments are added to the band. The flute, the glockenspiel, the baritone horn, the alto and the tenor saxophones, the sousaphone, and the trombone helped to create a new sound this year. There are hopes of forming a marching band in the near future.

The band helped to create an interesting Christmas program.

C. Barteaux, L. Castonguay, and C. Aber set the beat for the band.

Chorus

The juniors and seniors who make up the balance of the chorus are, first row (l. to r.): L. Fearon, S. Wassell, P. Blevins, E. Miller, L. Barron. Second row (l. to r.): M. Gianuzzi, R. Balck, L. Tobiasz, M. Fearon, M. Arno, K. Dunbar.

Everyone knows that success comes from good organization. This idea is exemplified by J. Ringo, S. Wassell, E. Meehan, and M. Fearon as they sort music.

A successful Christmas concert was a product of Thursday night rehearsals held from the beginning of the year.

Lynn Guastamachio adds her own touch, singing the religious hymn, "Jesu Bambino."

The audience appreciates a good performance.

Biology Club

Club members S. Sullivan, B. Skripol, K. Trantalis, C. Munn, and A. King study a three-dimensional representation of the human organs.

During a club meeting, C. Munn and L. Kotcha investigate reptilian characteristics.

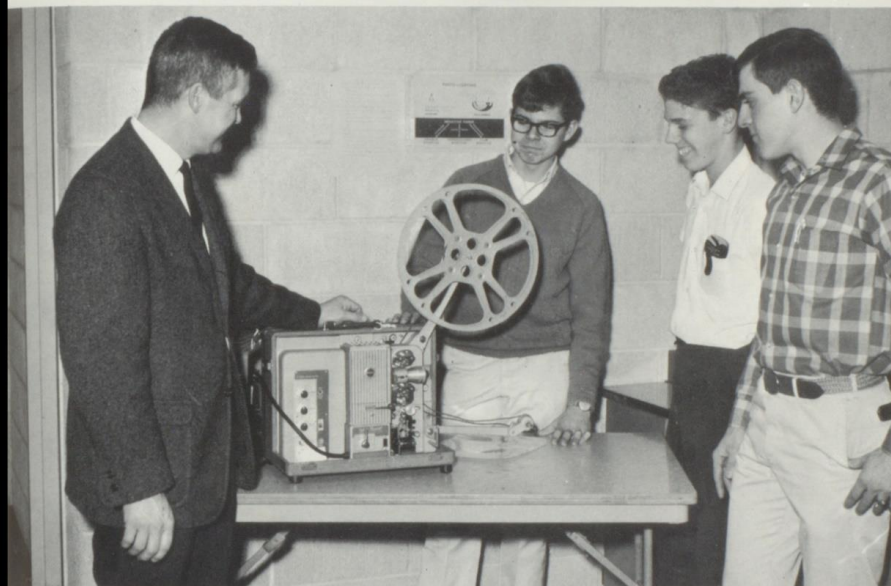

Mr. Widmer, advisor, answers the questions of D. Skripol and D. Schielein concerning the anatomy of a frog.

Mr. Luke, advisor, explains to club members R. Armitage, C. Munn, L. Kotcha, and D. Schielein, that experimentation and observation play a large part in Biology Club activities.

Home Economics Club

Miss Christensen, advisor, reminds S. Naugler, M. Arno, and D. Wight about an important feature of the sewing machine.

Audio- Visual Aids

Mr. Randall, advisor, explains to J. Uchneat, R. D'Agostino, and R. Chicoine the intricacies of operating the manual threading movie projector.

R. D'Agostino, R. Angilly, F. Evtushek, R. Kidwell, J. Uchneat, and R. Chicoine pose behind their most frequently used equipment, a filmstrip projector and a record player with speaker.

Dramatic Club

Preparing for rehearsal, Mr. Bradley, advisor, shows D. Kiley, R. Angilly, C. King, and M. Ball where to place the table.

"I hope they make it," says G. Cail as M. Leddy, J. Colli, and O. Ghezzi try to move a ladder while setting the stage.

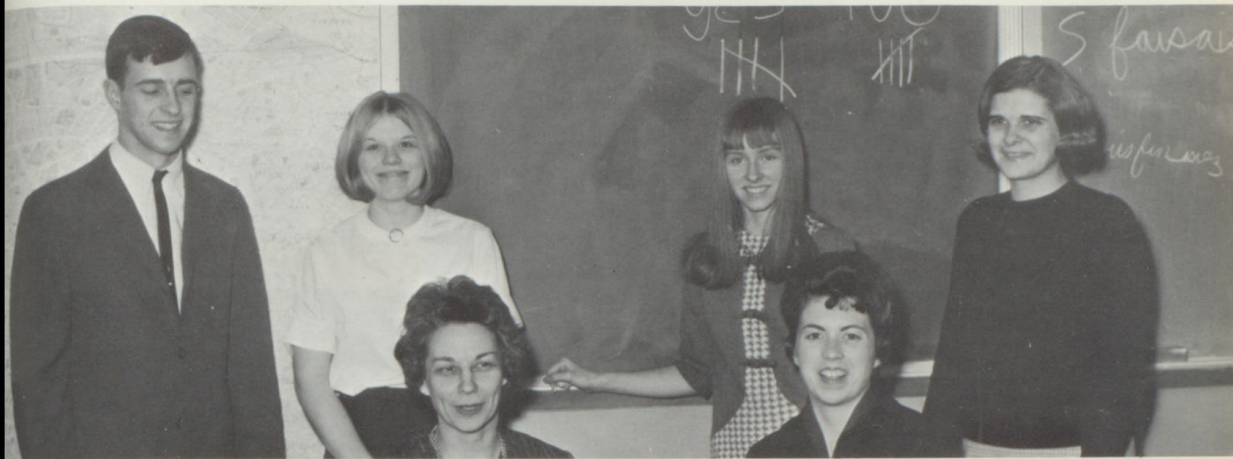

Mrs. Ciaglo, advisor, supervises and K. Lawsing watches as R. Balck, M. Giannuzzi, and E. Meehan apply makeup.

"Here is where you come in," Mr. Dowd, advisor, tells C. Lose, while B. Cody and L. Chicoine look on before rehearsal.

French Club

Club advisors, Mrs. Cliff and Mrs. Kew, and officers—D. Thibodeau, Pres.; P. Liberty, Treas.; E. Vozzola, Sec.; and N. Brown, Vice-Pres.—plan a French dinner.

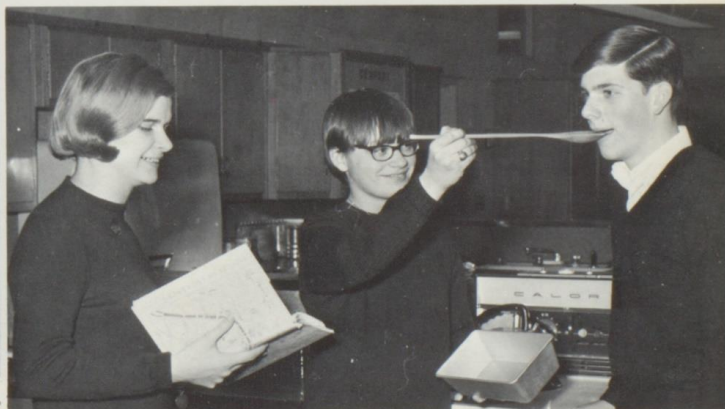

S. Stevenson and K. Rader browse through French novels before a meeting.

Mrs. Kew and M. Taylor select French tapes to be used as part of the club program.

It's the guillotine for pauvre Monsieur C. Surprenant, for K. Tersavich's tearful pleas do not deter the heartless henchman, D. Fearon.

J. Ringo samples a French delicacy prepared by amateur chefs N. Brown and D. Dombrowski.

79

Proving that a library is not merely a place for books, E. Hammond, M. Schauble, D. Pliszka, and J. Alekson, are shown putting up the library's Christmas decorations.

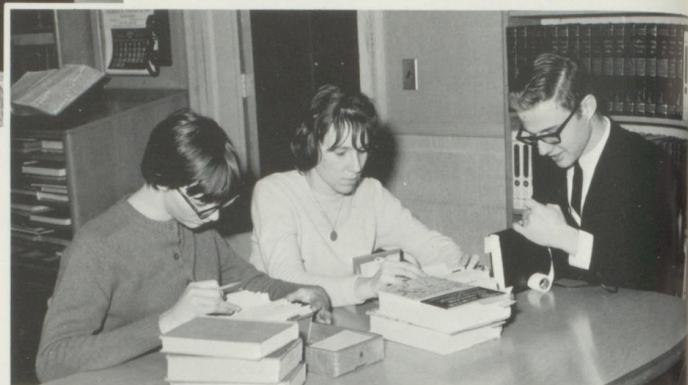

K. Dunbar and M. Arno file new book covers for future use as display aids.

The paper back book store adds a new dimension to the library. Here students may buy contemporary books at low prices. Two book store cashiers, T. La Fountain and D. Cousineau, demonstrate book purchasing procedures.

P. Gill and P. Murphy paste book pockets and due date slips onto the back pages of new books.

Showing the industrious characteristics of library assistants, D. Kiley, B. Murkowicz, and I. Hale are checking the shelf list and labeling books.

Library Assistants

With a grant of over $8,000 from the Federal Government the library shelves are being filled with new books. Miss Colby, the librarian, and the library assistants, C. Bruyette, S. Ciparelli, L. Jedzniak, and A. King start the books on their way to the library shelves.

Speaker, Mr. James Smith, instructs the Math Club members on data processing.

Math Club

Mr. Roberts explores the properties of three-dimensional objects with N. Thompson, S. Rau, D. Cencak, R. Janik, R. Connor, and L. Tobiasz.

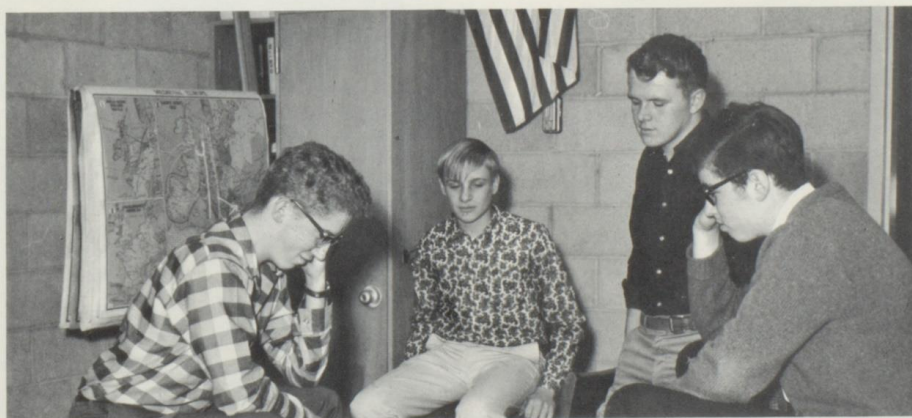

Mr. Traverso, advisor, demonstrates the use of the overhead projector to S. Rau, N. Thompson, and R. Janik.

"The longer you look at these optical illusions, the more you can see," Mrs. Oates, advisor, tells D. Cencak, R. Janik, N. Thompson, and S. Rau.

Chess Club

Club members (l. to r.) C. Aber, T. Banch, R. Goldthwart, and R. Clifford plan a strategic move to win the game. Mr. Muska is the club's advisor.

Mrs. Pearce, advisor, stresses the importance of good health through weight control.

Aiding in the Cystic Fibrosis Drive are S. Brown, K. Meehan, N. Topor, and E. Silman.

Future Nurses Club

M. Randall and D. Roncari learn from their advisor, Mrs. Loos, how to protect an injured arm.

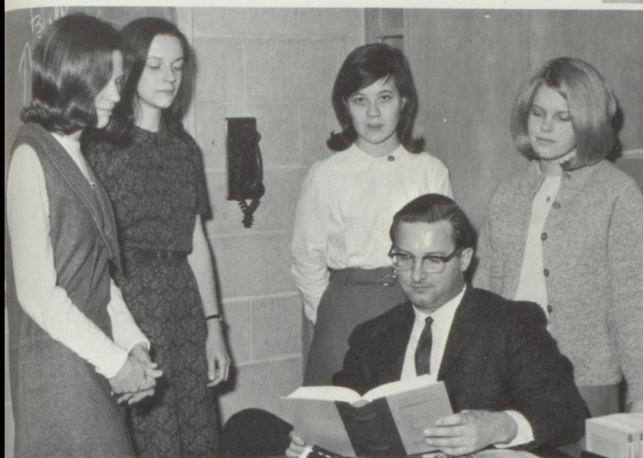

Regular eye check-ups, explains Mrs. Merancy, advisor, are essential for good eye care.

A. Balck shows K. Burke how to prevent an ankle from swelling.

Mrs. Magnani, advisor, demonstrates to B. Evans and J. Girvard the proper technique of child care in the home.

Political Science Club

The advisory committee plans for next meeting. R. Gill, Vice-Pres., refers to a newspaper article in discussion with G. Quinlivan, Sec.; W. Bourque, Pres.; C. Angilly; and M. Grabowicz.

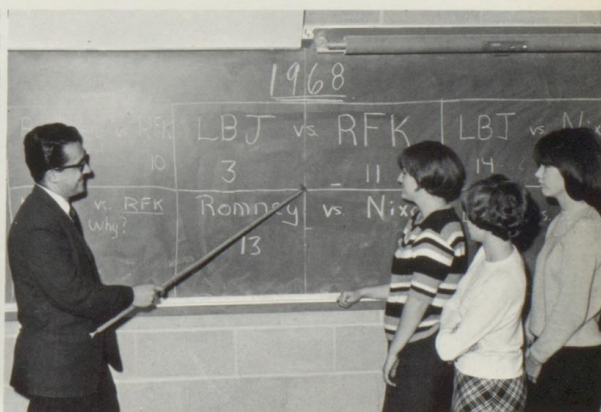

L. Barron, K. Sancomb, M. Fearon, and S. Floodquist listen as Mr. Stine defends the Warren Commission Report.

Viet Nam provides a lively topic of debate for P. Draghi, L. Bianchi, J. Campisi, M. Nasuta, and M. Garber.

Mr. Giorgio discusses the results of a club poll with E. Hunt, D. Ghiggeri, and D. Chasse.

Wilohi

"Here's page one," announces B. Massita proudly, while L. Fortunato and N. Malo assist in typing the master copies necessary for mimeographing.

Mr. Traghese and Mrs. Buckley, the advisors, and B. Massita, the editor, spend a great deal of time planning layouts, assigning articles, and proofreading.

Personal interviews, such as this one by R. LaBree with Mr. Luke, form the basis of many articles in the Roadrunner.

Club members N. Malo, L. Fortunato, and S. Bell enjoy seeing their work in print.

Potential articles are submitted to J. Mohinari by M. Malone, S. Wieliczka, and A. Levy.

The Wilohi goes to press as C. Heroux prints copies of the latest edition.
